Multi-Instrumentalist Todd Green performs original music on over 30 acoustic string, flute and percussion instruments from all over the world, inspired by many different cultures in the Middle East, Central Asia, Far East and South America. His custom-built electronic system allows him to layer instruments as he performs, which in effect turns him into a high-tech one-man-band of World Music. His artistic mission is to "help bring down the barriers that divide us by experiencing other cultures through their music" as he takes his audiences on a musical armchair-tour of the world.

Educational Programs:

Multi-instrumentalist Todd Green takes you on a whirlwind tour of musical instruments from around the world as he demonstrates 25 string, flute and percussion instruments and unusual rhythms and scales used in other cultures. He relates the instruments both culturally and historically as well as to our familiar Western instruments. His custom-built electronic system, which allows him to layer instruments as he performs, adds an element of high-tech "magic" and turns him into a one-man-band of World Music. This dynamic and highly acclaimed program keeps everyone riveted as Todd "helps break down the barriers that divide us by experiencing other cultures through their music."
